Hi Ma! Hi Dad! Why Be Such A Stranger

(A TOWNSMAN Newsfeature)

A question aimed at parents in Andover:

How much time do you actually spend with your kids? In work at home ("chores" seems to be a passe word) like doing dishes and cleaning cellars, in mutual interests or hobbies, whether it's constucting a kayak, collecting coins or bottles, or in activities together such as mountain walks?

How much do you leave your children alone, with neither your supervision nor your companionship, in order for the mother to pick up extra money, or to take a week's southern vacation with the extra money? Are the tangibles gained worth the intangibles lost?

Do the growing problems of young - very young - teenagers getting tanked up on beer for school dances, of teenage home parties featuring alcohol, or drugs, have anything to do with parents not spending a lot of time with their kids?

Many town authorities think so. Police have control over activities on town property, but find their problems are what goes on, unsupervised by parents, before and after school dances. Companionship and supervision for children is an even deeper need than better supervision of the home liquor closet for problem prevention.

The problems seem to be dope, alcohol, psychological dropouts. The TOWNSMAN got a definition of "psychological dropouts" from Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert.

"A psychological dropout is someone who goes through the motions of living in a society but his mind is not with it; his mind is on other things which he feels don't make sense to the society he is in."

The superintendent offered two principles for keeping in tune with your young people: (1) You must spend time with them - Nothing you can buy a child is a substitute with human interaction of parents with the children, and this takes time. work-time and leisure time, together. (2) You must find out what the child's world really is like, from the child's point of view.

For specifics, the superintendent offered two for parents of elementary-age children. One is a time-honored practise which TV has made obsolete in many families - reading aloud to children. The tube can supplement but cannot substitute for the investment of time, and the physical closeness and intimacy of a caring parent reading to a child, whose mind is creating its own pictures to go with the story.

Another suggestion: "Sit down and ask what your elementary-age

Negotiation Progress Stalled

Negotiations between town departments and Town Manager J. Maynard Austin are continuing this week, although no progress has been reported.

The manager said this week he would maintain his position of keeping the collective bargaining process between the fire department and public works employees within the confines of the office.

Austin said that it had been agreed at the outset that the bargaining process would be carried out in the office and not in public print and he would adhere to that position.

Reports last week indicated that employees were unhappy with the lengthy bargaining process with no results to show after several months of negotiation.

READY FOR PROCESSING. Laurent Bosse, chief, of the receipt and control branch at the IRS Service Center shown checking some of the 18 million tax returns being processed at the Service Center. The load will increase sharply as the deadline nears for filing returns. The North Atlantic Regional center will anticipate returns from the entire New England and New York state area by next Wednesday, as Uncle Sam requests his annual "dues."

Safety Center Delayed

The public safety center will probably not be ready for occupancy now until May.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and the building committee met Monday night to review progress on the building and it now appears that with the problems still to be solved, the police and fire departments will not be able to move in until at least early May.

Of imminent need is the return of the roofing subcontractor.

The flat roof over the apparatus deck is in need of finish work to prevent rain from entering the building. The general contractor has been making every effort to get the roofing people to return to the

Petition Seeks More Lieutenants

A petition is in circulation in various sections of Andover seeking the appointment of three lieutenants to the police department.

It is expected that with a sufficient amount of signatures, the matter would be presented to the selectmen for presentation at the earliest session of a special town meeting.

The police department has one lieutenant at the present time, Raymond F. Collins having been appointed the town's first police lieutenant about a year ago.

Reasons for the petition were unclear at the moment and the definite proponents of the proposal could not readily be determined.

Much of the activity in seeking signatures appears to be in the West Andover area.

There is an established civil service list for promotion to the rank of lieutenant. This will expire next March. The list was established last year following a civil service examination through which Collins was appointed.

Police Chief David L. Nicoll was asked about the circulation of the petition and said that he had heard that such a move was underway, but had not seen any.

Chief Nicoll said he would be opposed to the addition of three lieutenants to his department, should the matter be presented at this time.

Cafeteria Prices To Increase

The price of lunch is going up at Andover's public schools. It is the cafeteria director's intent that the quantity and quality of servings will go up, and rising food and labor costs be offset as a result.

The new cost? 30 cents for an elementary school lunch, and 35 cents for the secondary (7-12) lunch, beginning on April 27, the day school recommences after spring vacation.

Factors necessitating the raise were outlined to the school committee by Cafeteria Director Alexandra Ratynski and confirmed by General Supervisor Jack Berberian: they are greatly increased food costs, the decrease

Portrait At Museum

The Merrimack Valley Textile Museum has acquired an early nineteenth century oil portrait of Abraham Marland of Andover, one of America's pioneer textile manufacturers, according to an announcement from the Museum.

Director Thomas W. Leavitt said the portrait, which is unsigned but thought to date from about 1830, was obtained from Marland's great-great-granddaughters, the Misses Laura, Charlotte and Edna Marland of Main Street, Andover. After restoration, it will be idsplayed in the Museum.

Abraham Marland was born in Lancashire, England, and came to the United States in 1801, where he settled in Beverly. In 1807 he moved to Andover where he attempted unsuccessfully to manufacture cotton. (His acquaintance, Samuel Slater, was well on his way toward making a fortune in cotton manufacturing at the time.)

In 1812, Marland set himself up as a woolen manufacturer, beating his famous friend and neighbor, Nathaniel Stevens, by at least a year. He established a factory near present-day Route 28 in Andover, on the Shawsheen River, between 1821 and 1823. In 1834 he organized the Marland Manufacturing Company which he ran until his death in 1849.

The Merrimack Valley Textile Museum was incorporated in 1960 and is now a major reference and research center for the history of textile manufacturing in the United States. Inside its exhibit galleries is a major display devoted to clothmaking implements of the nineteenth century.

Ecology Program Outlined

"Know Your Town!" is Memorial Hall Library's slogan and invitation for Reservations Day, Saturday, April 18.

On that day, members of the garden clubs will lead townspeople on free morning and afternoon tours of four reservations of the Andover Village Improvement Society and the Andover Conservation Commission, as a feature of the Spring Ecology program.

The morning tours will walk through AVIS Baker's Meadow and the Conservation Commission's Foster's Reservations. At each reservation, a tour will leave at 10 a.m., and another will follow at 10:30 a.m.

In the afternoon, the AVIS Rocky Hill Reservation and the Conservation Commission reservation of Carmel Woods will be toured.

Again, members of the various garden clubs will lead two shifts of tours at each reservation, one at 2 p.m. and another at 2:30 p.m.

Each tour will take approximately one hour, and will be conducted in a leisurely manner to permit inspection and enjoyment of the surroundings.

The tours are completely free, open to all, and entire families are very welcome. It is suggested that women wear slacks and suitable shoes for woodland walking.

Guides will be waiting at the following parking points:

Morning - Baker's Meadow: park on Mayflower Road, just off Reservation Road. Foster's Reservation: park at Pomp's Pond parking lot, taking road leading down from Abbot Street at entrance to Recreation Park.

Afternoon - Rocky Hill Reservation: park at corner of Gould Road and Route 125, opposite the police barracks. Carmel Woods: park at bend of Carmel Road, up from High Street.

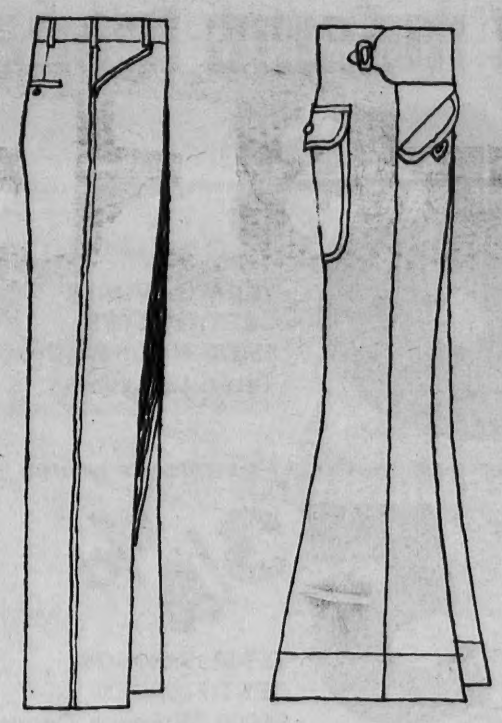

This program has been arranged by the Coordinating Committee on Ecology. The schedule for April 25, will be announced next week.

CCD Workshop Is Scheduled At Center

Dr. Noel J. Reyburn, associate dean, Boston College School of Education is participating in the sex education workshops sponsored by the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Archdiocese of Boston.

Dr. Reyburn will be speaking on the psycho-sexual development of the child. In this section of the workshop, he will develop the influences in society on the development of the child and how he thinks some of these influences should be met.

A workshop will be held April 18 at Christian Formation Center, Andover.

The concern for up-dated programs in the field of sex education can be seen all around - on the radio and TV talk programs, in articles in magazines, etc. These workshops were designed to meet the needs of parents and teachers who are involved in this current controversy over sex education in the schools.

People have highlighted the controversy, but no one has really tried to give an answer or to give some of the elements for a solution. In these study days, the CCD office hopes to bring out what an appropriate or Christian approach to sex education should be.

The workshops are open to all parents and teachers who are interested in getting some insights into a Christian approach to the problem of sexuality.

For further information, please write or call, Ernest T. Nedder, 1 Lake St., Brighton, Mass. 02135., 254-0725

Helicopter Demonstration At Hospital

A helicopter landing demonstration will be conducted at Bon Secours Hospital on Saturday, April 11, as a feature of the first national symposium on air mobility in community services to be held at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital, Boston, over that weekend.

The symposium will deal with helicopter and light iarcraft utilization in air ambulance services.

Bon Secours Hospital currently is studying the feasibility of installing a helicopter landing facility as part of its proposed new Emergency Department.

The April 11 program at the hospital, to which all interested emergency service officials in Greater Lawrence are invited, is planned for 10 a.m. Two "patients" will be flown to Methuen from the Brighton Marine Hospital to demonstrate the mobility and speed with which patients can be transferred from one hospital to another in the event of a need for sophisticated emergency treatment or specialized care.

The helicopter, made available for the demonstration by the Bell Helicopter Company of Fort Worth, Texas, will remain at the hospital for a half hour before flying the patients back to Brighton for the remainder of the symposium program. Harold Symes, a company representative, will be on hand to explain the use of helicopters in emergency service as well as their mobility in other public safety use.

Students Receive Awards

James W. Stover

Frank T. Watkins, III

Two Phillips Academy students have been granted Morehead Awards by the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

James Walter Stover, son of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Stover, 2601 Woodleigh Lane, Lincoln, Nebraska, and Frank Thomas Watkins, III, son of Capt. and Mrs. Frank T. Watkins, Jr., 115 Eastwood Road, Groton, Conn., have been designated to receive the award.

The announcement was made by Hugh G. Chatham, chairman of the board of trustees of the John Motley Morehead Foundation.

The awards were first presented in 1951. They are granted on the basis of outstanding merit as reflected in academic ability, character and leadership. Need is not considered.

Stover and Watkins are among 106 boys who will receive the awards this year.

As a student at Phillips, Stover has been a National Merit Semi-finalist, in the tutorial program, a member of the varsity swimming team and won the Harvard Club prize.

Watkins has served as president of the Gym committee, president of the Pre-Med Society, secretary of the Phillips Society and captain of the varsity swimming team.

When a YMCA group planned an evening reception in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in 1911, local clergymen objected because of the nude statuary. "Such fleshly sights at the late hour of 9:30, combined with the attentions of young ladies from the churches in serving refreshments, cannot be else than embarrassing as a public spectacle and offensive to their spiritual minds."

Completes Degree Requirements

Rosa Abboud, 4 Hampton Lane, has completed degree requirements for a master of education degree from Framingham State College, Framingham.

The degree will be presented in commencement exercises, June 8.

A songbird can sing its own duet. Its vocal organ, the syrinx, is located where the two bronchi join to form the trachea, and its functional elements (membrane, musculature and nerves) are doubled, one for each bronchus, and can be controlled separately, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

Selectmen Commend High Schoolers

The selectmen have recorded a commendation for the high school athletic teams which have brought prominence to Andover during the past year.

Selectman Roger W. Collins proposed a resolution, unanimously approved by his colleagues, to congratulate "the high school athletic department, and its several 1969-1970 championship teams."

Specifically mentioned in Collins' resolution were: the basketball team, winners of the Class C state championship, the boys gym team, winners of the state championship, the indoor track team, winners of the Class B state championship and the hockey team, winners of the Merrimack Valley Conference championship.

Also commended was the Andover Schools music department for "its excellent presentation of the all school concert held on March 8."

LWV Planning Membership Meeting

The League of Women Voters will hold a legislative workshop for old, new, and prospective members on Wednesday, April 15, at 9:15 a.m. at the home of Mrs. George Kwass, 10 Porter Road. Mrs. Richard H. Moody, legislative chairman, has invited all interested women to learn where the League has been, what has been accomplished, and where the league is headed on such state issues as:

Water - Is the League, and are you, concerned about pollution and long range planning of water use?

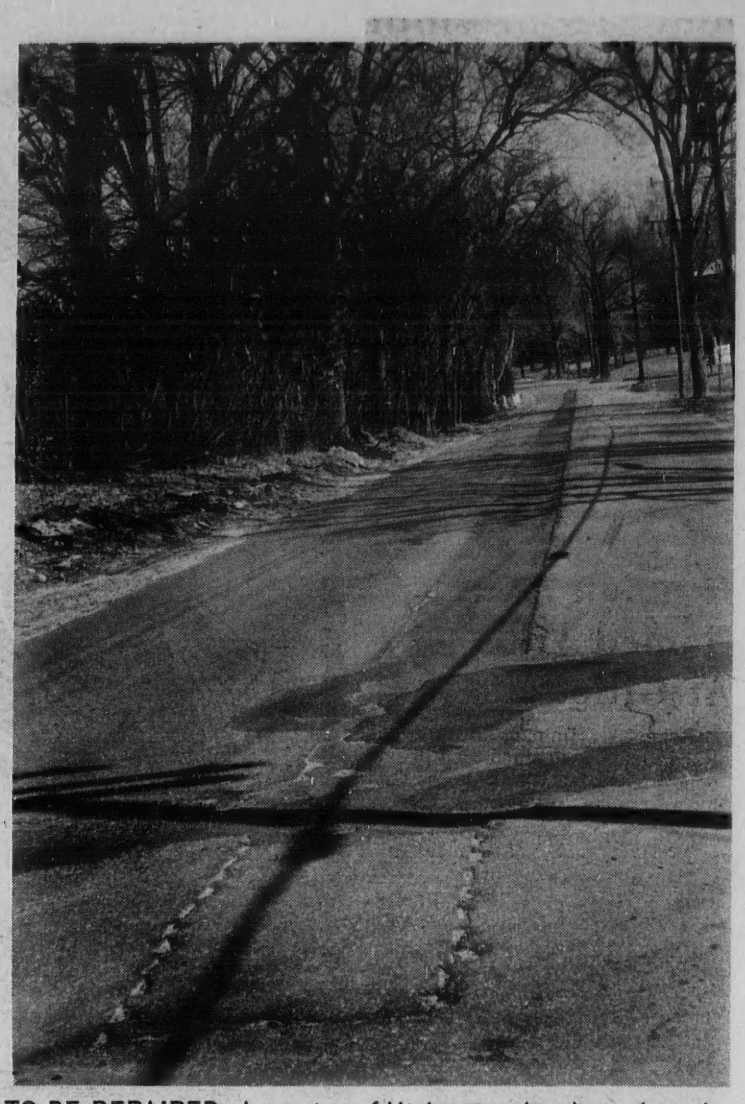

Education - What is the League doing about increasing state aid to education?

Counties - The League feels the need for an intermediary form of government, but is there a reform brewing for a regional organization?

Civil Service - Is some reform in sight?

Legislative branch - We lost H300, the bill to reduce the size of the House, but where do we go from here?

If you don't think clean air is important, remember that you inhale air twenty-two thousand times every day. What are you doing to stop air pollution?

TO BE REPAIRED. A section of High street has been the subject of complaint by the selectmen in recent weeks, in particular Roger W. Collins, who felt the road was left in poor condition after contractors installed utility lines. The contractors have agreed to make necessary repairs, according to Town Manager J. Maynard Austin. With the frost now apparently out of the ground, the contractors will begin to make the necessary permanent patching.

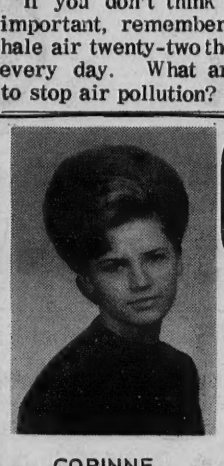

Moratorium Day Vigil Is Planned

Andover residents are planning various anti-war activities for April 15, the date set for a nationwide Vietnam Moratorium Day.

The local activities will start with an early morning vigil in front of the I.R.S. headquarters on Lowell Street. This vigil will be held from 6:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. "Because April 15 is Tax Collection Day, the local vigil will emphasize the need to refunnel federal funds now spent in Vietnam to the pressing needs at home," according to a statement by Thomas Rees, a co-chairman of the Andover Moratorium committee.

A march will leave from the Unitarian - Universalist Church parking lot at 10 a.m. to the I.R.S. "This march, too, will focus attention on the huge funds being spent on the war as well as on the continued deterioration in the Southeast Asian situation. It will also provide an opportunity for all those who wish to present their income tax returns in person to the Internal Revenue Service to do so at this time," added Mr. Rees.

Local groups are also planning to attend the rally to be held that afternoon on the Boston Common. Andover residents are asked to bring signs identifying their town. In this way the identities of local communities participating can be demonstrated.

The only surviving population of the beach meadow vole (Microtus breweri) now lives on Muskeget Island off Nantucket, probably under the most harsh conditions for any mammal, just grass and driftwood for protection. Formerly, it inhabited a sandy plain, which no longer exists, from New Jersey to Newfoundland.

Audubon Executive At Forum

Allen H. Morgan, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, will be the second in a series of four speakers at the Andover Forum. The topic of the series this year is: "Man and Environment equals Future?" Mr. Morgan speaks on April 12 at 8 p.m. at West Parish Church (United Church of Christ), 129 Reservation Road.

Mr. Morgan has headed the Mass. Audubon Society since 1957. This agency is one of the largest private organizations of its kind in the country. Mr. Morgan directs the efforts of a staff of more than 150 people in statewide programs of conservation, education and research. He has been active in such varied conservation endeavors as the Massachusetts Wetlands Committee (Chairman), a director of the New England Wildflower Preservation Society, a trustee of the Children's Museum of Jamaica Plain, a member of the Wayland Planning Board, chairman of the Wayland Conservation Commission and a governor-appointed member of the Massachusetts Legislative Recess Commission to investigate water pollution. He is secretary of the Sudbury Valley Trustees, Inc., a pioneering conservation organization which he helped to found in 1952. His dedication to conservation has won him the Trustees of Reservations Conservation Award, and the national American Motors Conservation Award.

Mr. Morgan is a native of Wayland and a graduate of Bowdoin College. His interest in natural history began with a boyhood hobby of collecting insects. This soon led to an awareness of birds. Because a perceptive study of one part of the natural world emphasizes the interdependence of the whole, he soon became vitally concerned with the preservation of all wildlife and other natural resources. His lecture will be illustrated with slides from his own collection.

Allen H. Morgan

Nathaniel B. Smith, faculty member at Phillips Andover Academy and trustee of AVIS (The Andover Village Improvement Society) will introduce Mr. Morgan and moderate the question/answer session following the lecture.

This series of the Andover Forum is being sponsored by the West Parish Church and the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover with the purpose of bringing to the citizens of this area of the Merrimack Valley, prominent speakers on issues of significant concern. Subsequent speakers in this year's series will be: April 19, John W. Putnam, Executive Officer of Boston Environment, Inc.; April 26, Dr. Stephen Worth, Associate Professor of Political Science at Northeastern University. Dr. Paul Dudley White, internationally known and honored expert on arterial diseases launched this forum series with his address last Sunday evening.

This program is open to the general public. Reservations for the balance of this series may be purchased at the door.

On Dean's List

Mr. and Mrs. Cole are making their home in Northridge, Calif. Mr. Cole, who is the son of Deputy Fire Chief and Mrs. Albert Cole, Jr., 49 Pine St., is engaged in computer design for Data Systems Division, Litton Industries, and also is studying for a master's degree at the University of California.

SPRING CLEANING. Tons of salt, sand and winter debris are being swept up these days as the town's street sweeper, accompanied by a scoop and trucks, makes its daily rounds. Here, the sweeper deposits a quantity of vacuumed material, while the scoop behind is ready to load another truckload. Some of the material is used for cover material at the town's disposal site.

Students To Present Comedy

This year the students of Andover East Junior High school will present That Groovy Guru, a comedy of life in our times, on April 10 and 11, at Memorial Auditorium.

The plot revolves around the adventures of the inhabitants of a village "crash pad" and a popular rock group called the Bugs. With the aid of an Indian Guru and a little incense, all gain new insights into themselves by discovering what they were in their last previous incarnations. Some of the revelations are not too flattering or comforting in light of the Guru's assertion: "Part of what you were, you are."

Featured in the cast are Greg Lander as the Guru, David Miles as the leader of the Bugs, Leslie Fisher and Keith Shugg as the two who find each other midst all the confusion, and Sue Forney as the Guru's own personal discovery.

Other members of the cast include Susan Legros, Laurie Moulton, Colin Bodge, Eric Schlott, Donna Magane, Nancy Eaton, Sharon Gordon, Pam Bartow, John Ponti, Ethan Cook, Debbie Furey, Abby Owen, Karen Billings, Andrea Orlan, Karen Remeis, Brendan Donahue, and Ruthann Adamsky.

Tickets are now available, and may be obtained from the students, and at the box office on the evenings of the performances.

Institute Seeks County Paintings

Paintings by Essex County artists working between 1870-1900 are the subject of a search by the Essex Institute in Salem. Any persons owning paintings of this description and willing to lend them for a summer exhibition at the Institute have been asked to communicate with the Director.

Essex County has long been a favorite subject for artists. Fitz Hugh Lane of Gloucester has been rescued from oblivion during the past 30 years. Artists popular from the end of the Civil War to 1900 deserve the same opportunity to regain public interest.

Among the artists whose works are sought are Ross Turner, Walter Dean, Sylvester Phelps Hodgdon, Charles E. L. Green, John Coggeshall, Ernest Longfellow, William Morris Hunt and his students at Kettle Cove, Magnolia, including Thomas Robinson, John B. Johnston, Helen Knowlton, and Marcus Waterman. There are undoubtedly more.

The Essex Institute is located at 132 Essex Street, Salem.

Society Growing

One-quarter of the North Andover Historical Society's 300 members have joined during the last two years, a survey has revealed.

Administrator Thomas W. Leavitt said nine persons have joined in the last month. They are: Raymond Potvin of Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Higginbottom, 250 Farnum St.; Mr. and Mrs. James T. Hurley, III, 135 Brentwood Circle; Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. McCarthy, 34 Old Village Lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Ostherr, Jr., 23 Fernview Avenue, all of North Andover.

A large number of the new members are residents who have moved to North Andover on the heels of the development of Routes 128, 93 and 495. Many other new members are former Lawrence residents who have moved from the city to the suburbs.

Founded in 1913, the Society welcomes as members any area resident with a serious interest in local history and the preservation of historic sites and buildings.

Learning Disability Group To Hear Reading Consultant

The Merrimack Valley Association For Children With Learning Disabilities will meet on Monday evening, April 13 at eight o'clock at the Ballard Vale United Church in Ballardvale. The public is invited.

A program of vital interest to anyone interested in the field of learning disabilities and particularly teaching personnel and school administrators will be presented by Mrs. Alice Ansara, head of the reading department, Manter Hall School in Cambridge and consultant for Educators Publishing Service, Cambridge. Mrs. Ansara is lecturer and consultant for in-service teacher training programs throughout the country. As workshop coodinator she gives advanced training in the identification and remediation of language learning disability, assisted by language specialists and psychologists. This is usually done under auspices of her publisher or upon invitation from departments within the State Board of Education.

Author of many publications, the speaker is currently involved in doing research work of approximately 4200 children, grades K-3, for early identification of specific language disability.

In her presentation on Monday evening, Mrs. Ansara will illustrate the importance of early identification of language learning problems by showing slides of normal and deviant language performance explaining the significance of the behavior. She will suggest and illustrate simple ways of spotting possible problems at home and in the classroom, showing slides of materials typical of those used in the classroom. Audience reaction in terms of what they see as the learning task posed by the materials and the problems posed by these children will be discussed. The speaker will suggest ways in which the educational problems can be overcome and give cases where they have been successfully treated.

The Merrimack Valley Association of Children with Learning Disabilities is an organization of parents, professionals and other persons interested in solving the problem of the estimated 25 percent of the student population affected by dyslexia, specific language or learning difficulties or perceptual handicap. These children are of above average to superior intelligence and their educational training must be approached through a somewhat different method.

An executive committee meeting was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell Lawton. Members of the committee include: Dr. Raymond E. Sparks, Mrs. Robert Sanborn, Mrs. C. Russell Lawton, Martin Sanborn, Mrs. Neal Mitton, Mrs. James Loscutoff, Mrs. Richard Page, Mrs. Charles Leigh, Dr. Edward Acton, Mrs. Charles Yerian and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lawson.

The association is formulating plans for their first social fund raising function. A dinner-dance is planned for Saturday, June 6 to be held at Indian Ridge Country Club.

Opera Season To Open In Boston

"Andrea Chenier" which had its world premiere at La Scala, Milan, just seventy-four years ago this month, has been chosen by the Metropolitan Opera to open its forthcoming Boston season on Monday evening, April 20. Predicted a failure by an important Milanese critic who had heard the opera auditioned at the theatre, "Andrea Chenier" was a triumph. Giordano is said to have telegraphed Mascagni, the famous composer and the only friend who had predicted a success, just one word -- "Prophet."

For those attending the Boston performance, it will be of interest to know that news spread quickly to America where the first performance took place at the Academy of Music the following November. The first Metropolitan performance was in 1954.

Some of the most beautiful music in all opera literature, "Andrea Chenier" has attracted such world renowned singers as Ponselle, Muzio, Rethberg, Milanov, Gigli, Martinelli, and Warren. The present Metropolitan Opera production will be conducted by Fausto Cleva and staged by Dino Yannopoulos, with sets and costumes by Frederick Fox.

Do your best today—and tomorrow's best will not seem so hard.

"COACH OF THE YEAR" AT BOWDOIN – When Sid Watson, coach of Bowdoin College's record-breaking 1969-70 hockey team, was elected national College Division Coach of the Year, artist Peg Stanwood went to work. Mrs. Stanwood, secretary in Bowdoin's Athletic office, drew poster which Coach Watson found waiting for him on his office door.

Watson Receives Top Award

Coach Sidney J. (Sid) Watson, whose 1969-70 Bowdoin College hockey team won 19 games and lost only 3, was honored for the second consecutive year Thursday, March 26, as "New England Hockey Coach of the Year."

Watson received the Clark Hodder Award, named in memory of the late Harvard coach, at the annual awards banquet of the New England College Hockey Assn. in the Hotel Somerset, Boston. The trophy is presented by the association annually to the region's outstanding hockey coach as selected in balloting among sports writers, sportscasters, hockey officials, coaches and sports information directors.

The 1970 Hodder Award was the latest in a long list of post-season honors which have come to Coach Watson and his 1969-70 team, which set numerous records while racking up the best hockey season in the history of the Brunswick, Maine, liberal arts college.

Last week the American Hockey Coaches Assn. elected Watson as its first national College Division Coach of the Year and presented him with the newly established Edward Jeremiah Memorial Trophy, named in memory of the late Dartmouth coach.

A native of Andover, and a former Northeastern University sports standout, Watson joined the Bowdoin athletic staff in 1959 after a distinquished professional football career as a halfback with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins. His varsity hockey teams at Bowdoin have consistently been among the top small college squads in the East.

Watson was elected Eastern Small College Coach of the Year in 1966 in a United Press International poll of Eastern hockey coaches.

A former member of the Board of Governors of the American College Hockey Coaches Assn., Coach Watson is the current secretary-treasurer of that organization and is also a member of the NCAA Ice Hockey Rules and Tournament committee.

Parent Joins Navy Reserve

Seaman Recruit Richard A. Parent, USNR son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Parent of 14 Mary Lou Lane, was one of nine men to be sworn into the United States Naval Reserve during the month of March at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center on North Parish Road in Lawrence.

Parent, a 1968 graduate of Andover High school, is currently attending Greater Lawrence Vocational Technical school in Andover.

He was sworn into the Navy Reserve by Lt. Commander Warren E. Edwards, Commanding Officer of Military Training Division 1-7. He will attend weekly classes at the Training Center for one year and will complete two weeks of recruit training at the Great Lakes Training Center, Illinois, before commencing his two years of active duty.

There are a limited number of openings in the Naval Reserve Program for qualified young men. Interested applicants may contact Chief Findlay in the recruiting office at the Naval Reserve Training Center in Lawrence.

Gardeners Hear About Landscaping

The March meeting of the Village Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. David Erhman, 29 Lincoln Circle, recently.

Mrs. Earl MacKenzie, president, conducted a business meeting and among other things discussed coming events, such as a plant sale, covered dish luncheon and a trip to Mahoney's in Winchester for individual flower arranging.

The guest speaker was Henry Lund of North Andover and the topic was "Landscape Design and Planning."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Eulie, Mrs. Paul Petit, Mrs. Robert Daley and Mrs. Frank Pichon. The hostess was presented with an Easter centerpiece by Mrs. Philip Baun.

A backward glance - A modern man who goes about wearing sunglasses to protect his eyes from glare can find his counterpart in the predynastic period. At that time, since glass had not been invented, a man used cosmetics to absorb strong light. He encircled his eyes with a line of green paint.

Barrow Poets To Perform At Academy

England' Barrow Poets, described by many as "The Beatles of Literature," will give a single performance on Friday night, April 17 at 8:15 p.m. in George Washington Hall, Phillips Academy, Andover. The Barrow Poets is the third and final event in this season's Andover Celebrity Series.

The entertainment of poetry and music is presented by four speakers and two musicians who perform on a wild assortment of instruments including what one critic has described as "grotesque homemade contraptions that might have been designed for an angel by Hieronymus Bosch." As offbeat as the Beatles and like the Beatles born in the pubs and cellars of England, The Barrow Poets are something new -- antic and literate, far-out and traditional too, and fun all the way.

The program includes poetry by George MacBeth, T. S. Eliot, Walter de La Mare, Andrew Marvell, George Crabbe, Shakespeare, W. S. Merwin, Ezra Pound and many others.

Reservations may be secured by writing or calling Phillips Academy, Andover, 475-3400.

Census Forms Should Be Returned

The Census Bureau is watching every incoming mail for a number of questionnaires for the 1970 Census of Population and Housing that should have been returned on April 1.

Henry A. Higgott, district manager of the Andover district office, asks that if yours is one of the missing, that you fill it out and mail it today. Don't make the Census Bureau come calling for your census form.

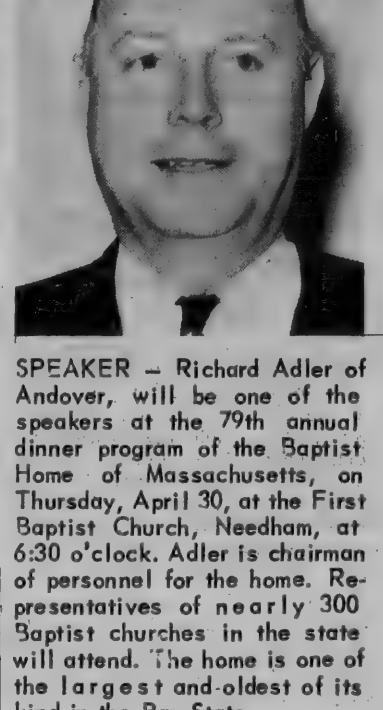

Every person must be counted, the manager said, whether by mail or by personal visit, and the cost of the census goes up with each household that must be visited. He pointed out that the success of the census depends on the cooperation of every household and every individual in filling out and returning the questionnaire. Helpful examples on how to mark the answers to the questions are given on the yellow instruction sheet furnished with the form.

The brown mail-back envelope that came with your census form does not require a stamp.

Rabies Clinic Scheduled

The Andover Board of Health will sponsor a Rabies Vaccine Clinic on Saturday morning, April 11, and also Saturday morning, April 18, at the shop area of the East Junior High school.

The clinic will be for dogs owned by Andover residents and will be conducted by Dr. Richard D. Lindsay. Clinic hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

Organist To Present Concert

Lee Erwin, best remembered by most of us as organist, songwriter (Dance Me Loose, Hello Sunshine, There Ought to be a Society) and arranger on Arthur Godfrey Time now devotes much of his time to making concert tours around the country. His schedule this spring will bring him back to the Great Hall of the Hammond Museum in Gloucester for two performances, Friday, April 24 and Saturday, April 25 at 8:30 p.m. Erwin will be playing the original score he recently composed to give live sound accompaniment to a great 1920 film comedy, "My Best Girl", starring Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers. As the movie unwinds its lighthearted tale of (rich) boy meets (poor) girl and all the resulting complications, Lee Erwin will work his subtle mood-magic on the museum's great pipe organ. Erwin reports that if he does his job right, most viewers forget they are looking at a "silent" film. "My Best Girl" comes to life to the full-range orchestral sound of a big pipe organ and this is the way it was meant to be seen.

Lee Erwin will also be remembered by some as organist on the once tremendously popular song-organ-poetry-radio show, "Moon River," which he played for 11 years before joining Arthur Godfrey's radio and TV shows.

"My Best Girl", full-length feature starring Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers, with Lee Erwin in person, two evenings only, Friday, April 24 and Saturday, April 25 at 8:30 p.m. at the Hammond Museum, Hesperus Avenue, Gloucester, Mass. Telephone 617-283-2081. Tickets are $2.50.

Presentation By Historical Society Set

On Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26, the Andover Historical Society will present an exhibit of "Fashions, Flowers and Furnishings" at the Amos Blanchard House, 97 Main St.

Exhibited each of the afternoons, from 2 until 4:30 p.m., will be beautiful gowns of the past century from the society's collection, shown in the period setting of the Amos Blanchard House. Some of the fashions will be shown informally by live models while others will be displayed on mannequins.

Complementing the beauty of the costumes will be appropriate floral arrangements created by members of the Andover Garden Club.

Arrangements for the afternoon are under the direction of Mrs. Ralph H. Hill, Mrs. Harold O. Nadler, and Mrs. James R. Sellers.

Mrs. Eugene F. O'Neill is chairman of refreshments which will be served throughout the afternoon.

Tickets may be purchased by calling George E. Haselton, 11 Cheever Circle.

Mrs. MacFadyen Is Manager Of Exchange

The board of directors for the Hay Scales exchange, 4 Johnson St., North Andover, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Norma MacFadyen, 16 Morton St. as new manager of the exchange.

Mrs. MacFadyen has expressed a desire to make the store more attractive and expand the services and merchandise available. She will be at the store from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Hay Scales Exchange was formed as a non-profit organization with the purpose of providing an outlet for talented artisans whose handmade crafts can only be produced in small quantities.

Organ Concert At Museum

In the Hammond Castle, Gloucester, on Saturday evening, April 18 at 8:30 p.m., Kenneth Wilson will give a Salute to Spring on the great organ with its 14,000 pipes.

The Hammond Castle has Sunday afternoon tours at 2, 3, and 4 p.m. The coffee shop is open at that time and there are some new and unusual gifts in the gift shop.

REAL ESTATE CORNER

Traffic in the home?

Of course. You have it all the time, if you stop to think. The path from the kitchen to the front door. From the bedroom to the bath. From the family room to the back yard. When you look for another house, look for features which may eliminate some of the more inconvenient traffic patterns.

If you have a family of small children, a door from the family room and from the kitchen to the back yard would probably be a big help. If the garbage must be placed in front on collection days, a door from the kitchen facing on the front will be a convenience.

If there is only one bathroom, be sure that its door opens on to a hall used by all the bedrooms.

Summer School Principals Elected By School Board

Summer school principals were elected for both the elementary and secondary school sessions in Andover last Tuesday night.

The school committee unanimously elected James Murphy, high school math department head, to head the secondary summer school for a second year, and elected Frank Cambria, guidance counselor at Shawsheen and Central School, to be new principal of the elementary summer school.

The plan of each session will be to offer both remedial (more preventive, at the younger level) and enrichment programs to Andover students in the summer, in a carefully planned, but informal framework.

In the remedial areas both Cambria and secondary summer school head Murphy told the committee Tuesday night that they will be working closely with school principals, teachers in reading and other special areas, and guidance counselors for referrals to their summer sessions, -- also for pinpointing subject areas, and particular points within them, where pupils need strengthening.

The elementary summer school again will be held in the Bancroft School. Frank Cambria succeeds Central School principal-elect Edwin Regan; now Shawsheen principal, as summer school principal.

Details on the program will be published soon, Cambria said he intends to continue, and hopes to amplify, last year's program, which included nature study, physical education and rhythmics, enrichment classes and instruction for children with specific learning difficulties.

The administration is considering Cambria's proposal for including a summer camp program for culturally deprived children in the community, and awaits a federal grant decision to implement it.

Information for interested families will follow Murphy said.

The Andover Summer School, Secondary Level, will again operate for a six week period of time this summer beginning June 29 and ending August 7. Most classes will be offered during the morning session from 9 a.m. until 12 noon. The usual remedial courses in English for grades seven and eight, English grade nine, English grades ten thru twelve, Math grade seven, Pre-Algebra, Plane Geometry, Algebra I, Algebra II, French I, Spanish I and Remedial Reading will be offered. Also, courses in personal Typing, Driver Education, and Driver Training will be offered.

The school library will be open for the accomodation of students from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. daily in the days of the summer school session. All day-classes will be conducted at the senior high school.

The secondary level of the Andover Summer School will be conducted under the direction of the Principal, Mr. James A. Murphy. The Summer School Office will be at the senior high school. It will be open Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3 to 5 p.m. The telephone number will be 475-8440 extension 17. These hours and days will be effective during the months of May and June. During the actual summer session the office hours will be 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. during all the days of the summer session.

All States have unemployment insurance laws which protect workers against wage losses caused by work-connected accidents or illnesses. Only five States and Puerto Rico provide such protection when the wage loss is caused by a disability which is not work-connected.

Andover People Have Personal Apollo Interest

Some Andover people will have a personal interest in the flight of Apollo 13, scheduled for lift-off Saturday, April 11.

Involved in the many aspects of design, development and production of systems in the moon-flight capsule, developed by RCA at its Aerospace division complex in Burlington, are Robert Buchanan, 60 Haverhill St.; Sandra Meinelt, 173 Elm St.; E. Veilleux, 137 Haggett's Pond Road; W. Blake, 12 Binney St. and John T. Morrow, 23 Webster St.

The Burlington company is one of the major producers of the Apollo electronic systems. Among the systems developed there is the control assembly to throttle the Lunar module descent engines, so the spacecraft can touch down gently on the surface of the moon.

Other assemblies govern changes in attitude during flight, as well as the eventual ascent from the moon's surface.

The systems are referred to as radar vision and electronic brains.

The local persons are among over 300,000 Americans employed in 20,000 private firms and government agencies involved in the third lunar exploration mission.

LIEUTENANTS

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin also said that he had heard of the petition. The manager said the matter was discussed during budget considerations prior to the annual town meeting and that the police chief had indicated that his needs were not for lieutenants, "at this time."

Austin said that possibly such consideration would come about in a year or two after the department moves into its new quarters in the public safety center on North Main street.

If the proper amount of certified signatures are presented, the selectmen would have no choice but to put the matter in the warrant at a special town meeting.

It is anticipated that a special town meeting will be called in late May or early June.

Town Manager Austin said that it is possible a special session will be called at that time in order that preliminary plans for an addition to the Central school could be presented and funds sought to further the project.

The committee is currently meeting to review the plans and come to agreement on the presentation.

Should the article for the appointment of additional lieutenants be in that warrant, it could face difficult times, since the Finance Committee holds a decisive edge in the matter.

Since money would have to be appropriated for the additional men, the FinCom, under town by-laws, can reject it, thus prohibiting action by the voters at a special town meeting. Any funding article must have FinCom approval before allowing it to be acted upon by the town meeting.

Promotion of three officers would possibly also be accompanied by appointment of three patrolmen to fill the vacancies created by the elevation in rank.

CAFETERIA

in the amount of government commodities available to the town, the necessity for higher labor costs, plus long-standing requests from school principals, as well as school children, for more food, more of the food the children like, and more variety in the menu.

The school committees unanimous decision must be considered tentative until it has the approval of the State Department of Education School Lunch office, since state reimbursement is involved. No problem is foreseen here, however, since Andover's price increase follows that of other communities, such as neighboring North Andover, which the state body approved.

The committee also approved Miss Ratynski's companion recommendation for a wage increase from $1.75 to $2.00 an hour for the cafeteria workers, with a $5 a week raise in the wages of the managers, retroactive to April 1. She pointed out that the present $1.75 an hour was too low for jobs that offer only two or three hours work each day.

Andover resident Miss Ratynski, a former Andover school lunch-muncher herself, with added experience as a Stouffer food expert, said the cafeteria's aim was to feed the children and meet the aims of the school lunch program, also to make school lunch attractive and a pleasant experience in the child's day. She has met with student groups from all three secondary schools to determine what foods, and type of service will best accomplish this. She said school favorites are hot dogs, hamburgers, pizza, spaghetti and sub sandwiches, but she reported that it is impossible to serve these at 25 cents a meal; the cost is closer to 50¢. The schools have had to make a choice between quantity and quality.

Miss Ratynski said that some of the "little things that would mean a lot" to students, are larger servings, cheese and Italian bread with spaghetti, more fresh fruit.

Some of the changes which have already been instituted which students and faculty seem to have appreciated are fresh salads, frozen vegetables in place of some canned, Swedish meatballs, and, dear to students' hearts, cafeteria workers service efforts to avoid the soggy hot dog bun.

NEGOTIATIONS

A report in the TOWNSMAN last week indicated that the town's professional negotiator had been retained at a rate of $40 an hour which some employees had indicated was his salary. Austin said Wednesday that the salary was $30 a day.

The fire department has retained Atty. Gerald Lewis to assist them in the bargaining process.

The firefighters have been without a contract since April 1.

The town manager said this week that he anticipated that the negotiations would be moving forward in a serious vein and that meetings of bargaining groups and counsel were scheduled.

The public works employees are being represented by officials of the state municipal employees association.

About one person out of every five who received a job through efforts of the local Federal-State employment security system offices during the past two years was 45 or older.

child is truly interested in. Then when you learn, see how you can pursue this together, perhaps it will start with a trip to the library. The information you find together to foster the interest, or a trip to the hardware store together to get the raw materials to start."

School administrators point out that the Andover schools go out of their way to offer opportunities for parents to do things with their children, but meet with little interest.

Andover high school teams brought home four championships this winter, yet how many of the invited parents came with their children to the athletic banquet honoring the winter's achievements? only a handful.

Bancroft School now offers recreation evenings for fathers and sons, and for mothers and daughters, on alternate Thursdays. Yet, Principal Earl Simon says that no one has showed up yet to use the gym, the chessboards, the ping pong tables with their kids.

"Lots of parents could share hobbies and special interest with other kids, as well as their own," Superintendent Seifert pointed out. "We are delighted to have them use the schools as meeting places to pursue these, and hope we will hear from parents who are interested and willing to do this."

The Student Activity Center at the high school began with the hope that adults would become involved, drop in to chat with students, join in interests pursued there. The TOWNSMAN asked a SAC advisor Jim Carroll how this has worked out. "A few parents have become involved, and it makes a big difference, but it's a minority."

"The kids with problems, drinking, etc., are almost a stereotype, needing attention. Generally speaking, you can recognize the kids that come from a true "family" situation. Their parents get involved, are interested, and these kids don't have to seek attention by drinking and drugs."

SAFETY CENTER

site, but as yet has been unable to get the workmen to return on a steady basis.

The delay in finishing the tarring of the roof and sealing of the area has delayed interior work.

It is preventing the hanging of the ceiling in the apparatus section, as well as the painting of the area.

Also remaining to be done is duct work for cables leading into the fire station area.

Office furniture and other furnishings, on order for some time, are still awaited and are now scheduled for May arrival.

It had been hoped that the safety center would be open and in operation this month.

A civil defense test of fallout shelter facilities was scheduled for later this month and the facilities at the safety center were to be used. If the building is not ready at that time, then one of the town's other shelter sites will have to be utilized for the 100 volunteers expected to participate in the 48-hour simulation of disaster or emergency conditions.

Editorial Comment

Responsibility

We were a bit appalled this week to receive a private report dealing with some young people, of junior high school age, having imbibed a bit too much in alcohol.

One youngster was arrested by local police over the weekend and faces action in juvenile court for possession of alcoholic beverages.

Another person, we are told, was taken to a local hospital for treatment after over-indulgence in alcohol.

The problem is not one eminating from the schools, where chaperones and police are on hand to supervise activities.

Indications are that these problems are stemming from unchaperoned parties in private homes either before or after the supervised dances.

The problem is not related to either of the junior high schools in town or the high school. It appears to be in the home where the source is available.

We talk of drugs and alcohol as being problems.

We have editorially harped on the drug problem locally in particular and throughout the area in general.

We have done so based on an advisory from a person in authority, who has predicted a death by drugs for an Andover youth by July.

It is hoped this can be averted by local action.

Now there appears to be further problems among restless youths trying out alcoholic beverages.

From appearances, much of the problem stems from a lack of parental responsibility.

When Johnny or Mary plan to have friends in before or after a dance or other social event, there should be an adult in attendance.

Too often, such is not the case, thus trouble begins.

There is access to the liquor cabinet and the challenge to give it a try.

Unchaperoned, youthful parties can lead to a plethora of possibilities.

Parental responsibility does not cease with birth.

It continues for years. There are many years required to mold a child into being a responsible citizen. These are important years when the cocktail party must be bypassed, or the social events left behind for a while, by the parents.

This commentary is not intended to be a condemnation of an overall Andover attitude. It is simply a message to ask that there be more awareness among parents of what is happening.

Probably better stated, it is a hope for a full return to family living.

Library

Next week is marked as National Library week, a rather significant week locally.

Andover is fortunate in having, what we consider, one of the finest library facilities and staffs in this area.

This year the library, in observing the special week set aside to focus attention on such facilities, is assisting local groups in bringing attention to ecology.

Memorial Hall library has been for many years one of Andover's finest assets. Its facilities provide adequate research and entertainment facilities for Andover residents and those employed locally.

It's value is attested to be its selection as a regional center, assisting in meeting the demands of several other libraries in nearby communities.

Memorial Hall library has certainly met local needs. The taxpayers, too, are deserving of credit for this facility, since they have always responded to the financial needs to update the library and meet the needs of a growing community.

Andover's library is certainly emblematic as having met the needs of the town, with a sincere promise to continue to be of service.

Civil Defense

We are pleased to join with state officials in commending Andover's civil defense program.

A week ago Civil Defense Director Burton Batcheller attended a state meeting in Tewksbury at which the local program was applauded. The town has sufficient stocked shelter areas to accommodate the entire town population, or in excess of 23,000 persons.

Such action taken by the CD director over a period of time is worthy of note.

Batcheller is now planning a shelter program, seeking 100 volunteers to spend 48 hours in a fallout shelter to increase awareness of the need for readiness in case of emergency or disaster.

State officials selected Andover for this pilot program, since it had a model local program.

Batcheller has obtained considerable needed equipment for the town, at nominal cost through the CD program.

All of this is exemplary, particularly in view of many hours of private time given to the local agency by Batcheller, whose annual salary is only slightly over $1,000.

Off The Top Of The Desk

The Apollo program continues this week, with a scheduled lift-off of Apollo 13 on a moon mission on Saturday. German Measles notwithstanding, the flight was still on schedule as of Wednesday.

Despite the past successful portions of the Apollo program, Andover has not as yet kept in tune.

Seems one of its newest accepted streets is spelled Appollo Circle -- or should we say misspelled.

The street is one of three apparently named after the space program, the other two circles being Mercury and Gemini.

Appollo, with its two P's is now entered officially in the town records, and unless some legal change is made, must forever remain mispelt.

Those huge cement trucks which go over the highways, now have bells ringing for some reason or other.

Hearing them along the roadways reminds of the time years ago when the "scissor grinder," pushed his cart along the roads during the good weather.

He generally had a wooden cart pushed along the road with a bell signalling his approach. Youngsters used to be fascinated by his work as he ground away sharpening scissors or knives.

The cement truck, with its bells clinging away, and for what reason we don't know, have a somewhat similar tone.

We marvel at the sign painter who is able to produce that Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High school on the side of the school buses.

Not only is the lengthy designation contained on one side, but both sides of several buses, including one of a smaller size.

We marvel at the ability to get all that information in such limited space.

Signs of spring were certainly evident last weekend, even though it was a bit chilly.

Residents were seen sweeping and raking yards and in general doing the regular spring cleanup chores.

It's amazing at this time of year to find the amount of winter accumulation needing attention. It is also further disturbing to realize that soon, if not already, the storm windows must be removed, windows washed, and screens placed in position.

Oh the joys of home ownership.

As we approach the Memorial Hall Library co-ordination of an ecology program, we feel compelled to reflect on a recent speaker's comment with reference to the Merrimack river.

Speaking of the polluted stream, the speaker said the river was too filthy to drink from, yet not heavy enough to plow.

Within a few short years and several million dollars from now, this problem is expected to be corrected, but the recent comment certainly fits the condition of the Merrimack.

We hereby resolve never to make anticipatory comments about spring. Last week we apologized for placing a jinx by commenting on signs of spring and sprouting bulbs.

Tuesday morning fears were again placed by the early arrival of snow, which did not last long, yet still gave appearances of a possible wintery day.

Next year, possibly, we will wait until early May to make any succinct comments about spring.

When and where do the seasons intertwine?

On the fields of athletic endeavor.

As the Red Sox opened their season this week, the Boston Bruins were underway in the Stanley Cup playoffs to determine the champion in the National Hockey league.

The Bruins began their efforts toward the championship Wednesday night, while the Red Sox opened up their 1970 season on Wednesday in New York.

Speaking of hockey, it was a long day Sunday for the avid hockey fan.

First there was the New York-Detroit game on national television in the afternoon, followed by the Bruins game on a Boston station at night.

The same could be true this Sunday.

Almost like New Year's day and all the bowl games all over again.

Local Police In Drug Program

Two members of the Andover police department will attend a special drug education program beginning Monday, April 13 in Boston under the direction of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn.

Sgt. Robert F. Parker and Patrolman Richard Aumais, will be among the 52 law enforcement officials from eastern Massachusetts attending the two week program.

The course will consist of lectures and discussions led by doctors, lawyers, pharmacists and psychiatrists. The courses deal with not only law enforcement procedures, but also with the psychological aspects of drug abuse and provisions for treatment and rehabilitation.

RADIATION EFFECTS

Radiation has somatic and genetic effects; it dusrupts a cell's basic self-regulatory machinery which can cause disease or inherited malformation. When radioactive waste is dumped into a stream, buried, dropped into the ocean, discharged into the air, it passes from one living thing to another, dispersing and concentrating in food, air and water.

The town will resurface a section of Shawsheen road which has sunk once again. A peat deposit, apparently not entirely removed during Chapter 90 construction, is believed to be the cause.

Students from the junior high school turned out enthusiastically last weekend to spruce up the grounds around the school. Grass was planted and the general area cleaned of litter.

Land taking hearings are scheduled in connection with the widening of Dascomb Road under a Chapter 90 project.

Bonded

Massachusetts' total bonded indebtedness continued below the 1969 level in February, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane reported today.

How To Dump DDT Supply

Don't just throw your old DDT and other persistent pesticides down the drain, now that they have been banned. That will only poison the rivers and ocean. Don't throw them in the trash or even bury them -- they will contaminate all soil, air, or water they may contact.

What should you do with your DDT supply?

Massachusetts has found a solution, and it's hoped that other states will quickly follow their neighbor's example.

The Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources is collecting all persistent pesticides between now and January 23rd at its State Forest and Park offices. Citizens are asked to bring their supplies of DDT, DDD, dieldrin, aldrin, endrin, toxaphene, and heptachlor to the nearest State Forest and Park collecting facility.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society is also helping out by collecting the pesticides at its sanctuary offices.

All pesticides collected will be delivered to the storage bunkers of the old Cohasset Annex of the Hingham Naval Ammunition Depot, which is now a state park. They will be stored there until arrangements can be made for destroying them in a new experimental high-heat incinerator in Whitman, Mass.

The pesticides can be broken down and decomposed by the extreme heat produced by the new incinerator, without danger of the poison escaping into the air.

Anyone possessing unused DDT, DDD, dieldrin, aldrin, endrin, toxaphene, or heptachlor is asked to bring it before January 23rd to one of the State Forest and Park offices, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. If you have any questions, phone one of the numbers listed below or phone Charles S. Hood, Chief of the Bureau of Insect Pest Control, Mass. Dept. of Natural Resources. Mr. Hood's telephone number is 727-3184 (Boston).

Pesticides may be delivered to the following locations:

Bradley Palmer State Park, Asbury Road, Topsfield, 887-5931.

Otter River State Forest, Winchendon, 939-8962.

Amherst State Nursery, Univ. of Mass. Campus, Amherst, 549-1461.

In Essex County only, pesticides may also be delivered to the local fire stations, where they will be picked up by the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Arthur W. Brownell, Massachusetts Commissioner of Natural Resources, warned, "Any quantity of DDT, or other hard pesticide -- whether it be a ton, a pound, or even an ounce -- can be harmful to humans, all other living creatures and the environment in which we live, and therefore should be turned over to state officials for ultimate and safe disposal.

"The trouble with these hard pesticides is that you just can't toss them out with the other household waste, flush them down the kitchen sink, or even bury them. They won't decompose and they contaminate all soil, air or water they may contact.

Bar-B-Que, Planned

Plans are now underway for the second annual Western Bar-B-Que and Educational Round-Up which will be sponsored by the Student Government of the Andover West Junior High school in conjunction with the school's annual Open House program. The event will be held on Thursday, May 14, 1970, and will be conducted "In the Gay Nineties Style."

The Student Council officers - Blaine Randall, president; Greg Brown, vice-president; Nancy Gilday, secretary; and Dean Blumberg, treasurer - have once again arranged to serve a barbequed chicken dinner.

Plans call for the dinner to be served continuously from 5 to 7:30 p.m. within the courtyard of the school with two lines being set up to speed serving. Last year 856 persons were fed during the evening. Student committees are being formed to develop the gay nineties theme in a western motif to provide the proper atmosphere to enhance the open-pit barbequing.

Reservations for the dinner at $2 may be made through students of Andover West Junior High school or by phoning the West Junior High school. No tickets for the barbe-que will be available on the night of the affair.

The Educational Round-Up will feature various samples of student work displayed throughout the school building. Townspeople are invited to tour the building before or after dinner to see first-hand the achievements of the students.

Highlights of the round-up will include numerous art works, industrial arts projects and homemaking projects of the students.

Also featured will be foreign language skits, science seminars, and many other subject area displays.

A physical education exhibition will be presented during the evening in the school gymnasium.

The climax of the evening will be the presentation of the Annual Musical Clubs concert in the school auditorium. With approximately 500 students participating, the program will include both vocal and instrumental selections featuring favorites from the gay ninety days.

The Western Bar-B-Que and Educational Round-Up is open to the public and the student leaders of the West Junior High school have expressed the hope that all townspeople will take advantage of this opportunity to visit their school and participate in a very enjoyable evening.

Andover Raytheon Plant Highlighted

Successful flight tests of industrial prototypes of the improved Hawk ground-to-air missile system produced at Raytheon Company's Missile Systems Division plant in Andover and continued production of the basic Hawk system are highlighted in the company's 1969 annual report now being mailed to more than 28,000 stockholders.

Raytheon reported earnings and earnings per share 11 per cent higher than a year ago and the highest sales, earnings, and earnings per share in its history. Earnings were $35.2 million, or $2.35 a common share, on sales of$1 billion, 285 million. It was the fifth consecutive year of record earnings and the fourth of record sales.

Andover Plant Manager Joseph Glasser, commenting on the annual report, said, "The Andover facility is an important element in the company's growth and will continue to be a vital contributing element in the year ahead.

"We received our first production order for improved Hawk missiles during the year and flight tests are continuing. The improved Hawk is a solid-state version of the widely deployed Hawk system," he said.

"The basic Hawk system, which Andover has been producing for eleven years, continues to fill an important air defense need both in the U. S. and overseas," Mr. Glasser said.

The Raytheon executive said that transfer of all operations from the present Andover manufacturing facility to the new Andover plant will be completed during 1970.

The Missile Systems Division, the company's largest division, operates plants and laboratories in Bedford and Lowell; Bristol, Tenn.; White Sands, New Mexico; and Oxnard, Calif.

Major programs at the division are the SAM-D (Surface-to-Air Missile Development) program, a highly mobile system being developed for defense against high performance aircraft and short range missiles; the Missile Site Radar for the Safeguard System; two versions of the radar guided air-to-air Sparrow missile; the infrared guided air-to-air Sidewinder missile; and development work in avionic systems.

In their letter to stockholders, Raytheon President Thomas L. Phillips and Chairman Charles F. Adams reported that the company continues to be balanced between commercial and government business with a broad earnings base both domestically and overseas. They predicted continued growth and profit opportunities in 1970 and the decade ahead.

They cited three broad accomplishments during the past year: increased scope and volume of commercial business by acquisition and by internal growth; broadening the company's diversified government business with three new major long-term programs; and completion of the turn-around of the company's overseas business and initiation of overseas diversification and expansion.

League Seeks Voting Rights For Capitol

The League of Women Voters is participating in a nationwide petition drive to focus its attention on the fact that there is no congressional representation for the 800,000 residents of our nation's Capitol. These citizens are governed by Congress, but no member of Congress is elected by them.

In announcing the petition drive, local committee chairman Mrs. Alfred Klieder stated that the league, as part of its 50th anniversary celebration, will obtain signatures to help the citizens of Washington, D.C. attain the right to vote. The league is asking all interested citizens to add their names to the thousands of others from all over the country which will be submitted to members of Congress during the league convention in May.

This is an informal petition, and signers do not have to be registered voters. League members will be at Purity Supreme and the Andover Co-Op Thursday, April 16 and Friday, April 17, with petitions for interested citizens to sign.

Beet Greens Arriving

The first native crop of the season -- greenhouse grown, but spring's first crop -- is beet greens, the richly nutritious vegetable for kids who don't like spinach. They're prepared in much the same way: drop in boiling water for two or three minutes, drain and serve with butter, olive oil or vinegar, and salt and pepper. They're showing up now on produce counters. Worth a try!

The coming week should see possible price reductions in native greenhouse cucumbers, this being the peak of the harvest. They're fresh, crisp and unwaxed . . .and flavorful as any you'll find throughout the year.

Weather permitting, Massachusetts growers will now begin to harvest a crop that has wintered in the ground -- spring-dug parsnips. They're left to sweeten under the snow, and dug for market when the frost is out of the ground. Spring-dug parsnips have many fans -- look for them any day now.

Out in the Berkshires, where the snow is still two feet deep, the cry "sap is running" has already been heard. The maple syrup producers are collecting and evaporating as fast as they can, in the annual race to keep up with the trees. A number of producers welcome visitors to the "sugar bush"; for information, contact the Berkshire Pioneer Maple Producers' Coop, Ashfield, Mass. 01330.

As the weather improves -- it's hard to be sure, in early April -- more and more roadside stands will be opening, with their wonderful displays of bedding plants, fertilizers, and gardening aids. When you begin to see them, you know it must be spring!

AGRI-FACT: Not very well known is the fact that Massachusetts produces some 800,000 ducklings annually for the table. Neither exotic nor expensive, duck is tender and delicious, and the recipes are almost endless. Makes an excellent change of pace in poultry. They're available in most supermarkets.

Spring cleaning time is rapidly approaching and one item which should be high on the list is getting rid of old cans of paint and thinner. Keeping them around too long could lead to an explosive situation.

Always check labels on cleansers and be sure to follow them strictly. Many of these beneficial products have ingredients which could be harmful if carelessly or improperly used.

Rural residents engaged in farming today are far outnumbered by those employed in manufacturing, services, and other jobs typical of any city. Only about one-fourth of all rural residents are farm people.

Massachusetts has the country's oldest oil company, founded in 1812. The company, whose petroleum products are sold at 650 filling stations, at first sold whale oil, which was widely used as a lighting fuel.

Normal techniques of transferring oil to small coastal tankers, barges and shore facilities result in a chronic source of coastal oil. JOHN T. FITCH, ENGINEER AND SCIENCE REPORTER, EXPLAINS WHY YOUR FORD LOOKS SO GOOD SO LONG:
4 gallons of paint and primer, 5 coats, 2 bakings, a hand sanding and a wax spray...that's how Ford finishes an LTD.

FORD STARTS WITH TWO COATS OF PRIMER. RED PRIMER FIRST, THEN GRAY, SO THAT WHEN WE HAND SAND THE CAR ANY HIGH SPOTS SHOW UP RED AND WE CAN SMOOTH THEM OUT.

A SECOND BAKING CHEMICALLY CURES THE PAINT AND ADDS HARDNESS. THEN, BEFORE SHIPPING, A WAX SPRAY PROTECTS THE PAINT JOB AGAINST WEATHER IN TRANSIT. WE WANT YOUR FORD TO LOOK RIGHT WHEN WE HAND YOU THE KEYS.
AFTER THE HAND SANDING, FORDS ARE WASHED, DRIED AND BAKED. THEN COME THREE COATS OF FORD'S ACRYLIC ENAMEL. A HARDER SURFACE, MORE RESISTANT TO SCRATCHES THAN THE LACQUER OUR COMPETITOR USES.

AND YOUR FORD DEALER HAS SOME GOOD-LOOKING PRICES, TOO. SPECIALLY PRICED, SPECIALLY EQUIPPED GALAXIES, TORINOS AND MUSTANGS. EVEN BEFORE WE START TO DEAL. COME SAVE.
